GREAT SPORT BEGINS AT OUR HOME TRACK

By J. W. MARCHBANK

After a lapse of one year, the thoroughbreds are to race at Tanforan again tomorrow (Saturday). The spring meeting will be for twenty-five days, thus winding up a little beyond the middle of May. It is an ideal season for the sport, as is the early fall. As I have pointed out a number of times in these informal discussions, California can put on racing any time of the year. The chief factor in deciding the sessions is hitting on a time when the majority of our people have some days they can set aside for enjoyment of the great game.

Friends of Tanforan—and it can truly be said no track has more—are anticipating a highly successful period of racing for this spring. This is the tenth meeting since I got things going five years ago. My purpose has been to furnish better sport with each succeeding season. Not only to have contests out on the oval that will thrill the fans, but to build up the breeding industry. More farms are urgently needed for the production of needed.

I started my operations over at Heather Farm when there was no racing in the state and when prospects for the restoration of the sport were far from bright. I had full confidence, however, in the swing of the pendulum that would bring back both racing and breeding and acted on that belief when I purchased the Celt mare Antrim and a little later fashionably bred yearlings in the sales ring at Saratoga.

Racegoers are familiar with the story of how Antrim became the dam of the undefeated King Heather and how the "King" has sired many notable winners. The latest of the King Heathers to achieve fame is none other than Maid of Perth, a filly that has gone to the post three times and come down in front three times in the best of company. With breeding and racing going strong it is far from rash to predict days of glory for the sport are ahead.

Scenes and Persons in the Current News

1—U. S. S. Worden, first destroyer to be built at Puget Sound navy yard, entering San Diego harbor on its shake down cruise to the Atlantic coast. 2—Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrnes signing the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill. 3—Military parade passing the Capitol during the celebration of Army day in Washington.

GAME FOR SUNDAY ON HOME DIAMOND

Postponed Contest Of Last Week Will Be Played By Same Teams

The rain again caused a postponement of the baseball game at the Jefferson Union High School diamond last Sunday.

With the present excellent weather conditions remaining until next Sunday it is hoped to have a hot contest at this diamond on that afternoon at 2 o'clock between the same two teams scheduled to play formerly—the Daly City Tanforans and the Virden Campfires, the latter winners of the Recreation AA League pennant.

These are two well matched baseball clubs, and the fans should see plenty of action and good playing in the game this coming Sunday.

Our boys have been going well this season and there should be a large crowd down to root for them.

The Peniusula League, in which our home team is entered, will open in a couple of weeks.

WILL ROGERS HAS GRAND FILM ROLE

The County Chairman Gives Star Mirthful And Human Story Of Politics

He's done it again, ladies and gentlemen. The ace male star of the screen gives us another triumphant story!

Your favorite actor—as well as ours and the other fellow's—has turned again to the rural American way of saying that Will Rogers is with us once more, this time in the scene for one of the most human mirthful and flavorsome films in years. All of which is just another title role of Fox Film's "The County Chairman," which will play at the Daly City Theater, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 21, 22 and 23.

"The County Chairman" is a fine and atmospheric screen version of the famous George Ade comedy of the same name, which thirty years ago made the name and fame of Maclyn Arbuckle as a stage star. It is a swift-moving and sure-fire story.

The star appears as the fire-eating boss of a small town, who kisses all the babies, captures all the votes and brings together two estranged young lovers. In a scrap, however, he's too hot to handle!

His supporting cast numbers many players who have been with him in previous successes, among them Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Louise Dresser, Berton Churchill, Frank Melton and Stepin Fechit.

John Blystone, Fox Film veteran, has directed the new Roger's vehicle with unerring skill and Edward W. Butcher is the producer. The screen play was written by Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman.

The second feature is "Little Men," with Frankie Darro. China Night, Wednesday.

FOUR AUTOS AND STREET CAR HAVE CRASH IN COLMA

Collision Causes Pileup Of Machines Proceeding In Same Direction

Sunday afternoon four automobiles and a street car tangled at the intersection of Mission and School streets in Colma. The pileup was caused by one machine colliding with the street car while the others were following close behind. Rain and slippery pavements were blamed for the crash.

Witnesses state that the first auto, which bumped the street car, was leading a procession of machines, all traveling north on Mission street.

The vehicle driven by William Edwin Nelson of 30 Brunswick street, crashed into the railway car, and, before the others could stop, four more automobiles had piled up in various positions on the highway. None of the occupants in the rear cars were injured.

Miss Adeline Roberts, 21, of San Francisco, who was a passenger in Nelson's machine, sustained cuts and bruises. She was taken to the Villa Sanitarium for treatment and was removed to her home later in the evening.

The other automobiles involved in the collision were driven by Jack Quinlan, E. L. Molenari and Faust Paitanesi, all of San Francisco. Tom Materazzo was the motorman of the street car.

Considerable damage was sustained by all the automobiles and the street car.

WELFARE BODY HOLDS SESSION

The Community Welfare Association held their regular meeting on last Thursday evening and transacted considerable business.

The committee for the Daly City Recreation and Improvement Club gave a lengthy report on the city projects advocated by the commission.

Mrs. Chesney, of the layette committee, brought an entire outfit to the club to show the members what this committee is doing.

The picnic committee reported progress.

After the meeting adjourned the ladies of the social committee served home made cake and coffee to the members.

The next meeting to be held on Thursday evening, April 25 will be the monthly whist party, and will be in the Theater building on Mission street. Game called at 8 o'clock.

MAY BE SHAKEUP IN OFFICE OF ENGINEER

Supervisor Witt Demands That County Executive Secure Resignation

At the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors, Monday of this week, Supervisor Al Witt of the First Township demanded that County Executive Walter T. Kellogg secure the resignation of County Engineer Scott within a week. Witt served notice that if the resignation is not forthcoming he will file charges of incompetency and neglect against the last named official. Witt intimated he may ask grand jury action in an investigation of the county road department, under Scott's jurisdiction.

Executive Kellogg declined any comment on the Scott embroglio with his usual, "I have nothing to say."

But Supervisor Witt had plenty to say regarding the matter.

He charged that Scott handed an undated resignation to Kellogg when the latter appointed him to succeed former engineer James in January.

This resignation, Witt declared, is now in the hands of District Attorney Ferrell. He revealed that the majority members of the board, who were responsible for Scott's selection for the office, never intended that he remain permanently at the head of the road department.

Supervisor Witt declared: "Scott made a verbal promise at the time of his appointment that he would resign at the end of three months to pave the way for a successor. I suppose he was going to accept a deputyship under the new engineer."

Other members of the board, particularly the minority members, John Poole and Fred Beer, said they had no comments to make.

NEW BAYSHORE HALL COMPLETED

The Bayshore Voters' League have erected a new hall at 125-127 Acacia street in Bayshore City, for use for meetings and other purposes. This is one of the most modern structures in that vicinity to be erected is recent years.

To celebrate the completion of the edifice the League will hold a dedication ceremony at the Assembly Hall on Friday evening, April 26, at 8:00 o'clock. There will be entertainment, dancing and refreshments, according to the announcements. Admission will be by ticket only.

AUTOMOBILE DOES DAMAGE TO STATION

Sunday evening the proprietor of the Cavanaugh Toll and Gas Station on the Skyline boulevard called the local police department and said that sometime between 9 o'clock that morning and 9:40 in the evening some unknown autoist ran into the service station, knocking down two pumps and otherwise damaging the front of the building. Damage is estimated at about $300 or $400.

San Francisco police were notified. The case was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Krehl of Colma, who is conducting a search for the unknown car and its driver.

SAYS WILL HAVE BEST TRACK MEET EVER HELD HERE

Trainers And Horsemen Are Enthusiastic Over Coming Racing Session On Home Course

Frank Walker, clever conditioner, was at Tanforan today reserving accommodations for the spring meeting to open Saturday, April 20. Walker has saddled popular winners at the nearby course since racing was restored five years ago and is coming back once more with handy performers moving over from Bay Meadows. Indicative of the feeling animating trainers in returning to Tanforan at every possible opportunity, Walker, after giving a sweeping glance to the new racing strip, said: "You're going to have the best meeting ever held at this track. Tanforan is home to us. We're doing everything possible to make it a huge success."

* * *

Kay Spence had some of the J. W. Marchbank youngsters out galloping and, as was expected, the track stood the test to the satisfaction of all the expert spectators. Though the racing this spring probably will be on dry footing indications are the course will hold up remarkably well whenever there is sport in rainy weather. The scientifically applied top dressing assures an altogether safe oval in all seasons.

* * *

Announcement has been made free parking space inside the plant will be available to Tanforan patrons for the twenty-five day period of racing. This decision is in line with the liberal policy maintained by the Tanforan management under the direction of J. W. Marchbank since racing was brought back to California at the San Bruno course. The directing owner is determined to place the game on a high plane and is of the opinion that an admission charge to fans and "gratis" parking will work wonders toward achieveing his laudable ambition.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS HAVE FIRE DRILLS

On Friday of last week Chief Chesney, accompanied by Assistant Chief Bodien, drilled the children in all of the schools in this district.

It is gratifying to the fire department to note improvement in the emptying of the school, the table below shows a gain in every school but one; and this one has always held the record, so we expect them to pick up the next time.

	Pupils	Sec.	Last Drill

NEW BOY IN TOWN

The happiest man in town is Mr. Carl Nelson of Mission street, who is treading on air. His wife presented him with a fine son, Carl Lester, born Wednesday evening at their home. This is the third child in the family, the others being girls.

SILVER SOON TO GO BACK TO OLD PRICE

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Payment by the United States treasury of 71 cents an ounce for newly mined silver from American mines is only a beginning. "Insiders" are predicting that in a comparatively short time the old statutory price of the white metal at $1.29 an ounce will be restored.

With the recognition of silver once more as a monetary metal, there is no telling how speedy will be the recovery of the industries dependent on silver mining. Already plans are under way to reopen lead-silver mines that have long been closed. Copper and zinc are also likely to reap much benefit.

President Roosevelt appears to be steering a middle course in his handling of both the gold and silver problems. The group in Congress trying to do more and more for silver has a program that has not met with the approval of the chief executive of the nation. The agricultural committee of the Senate has already approved the Wheeler mandatory 16-1 silver purchase bill. There is another bloc that doesn't see any merit in the historic Bryan platform at all.

Now that a move has been made for silver, the report that gold is going up to $41.34 has gained strength. The "Greenbackers" are ever active in the legislative halls at Washington, similarly to the silver advocates and the President shows wisdom in promulgating liberal orders once in a while just to head off the extremists and also to prove to the conservatives he is a real progressive.

* * *

My friend, Earle W. Knight, managing editor of that breezy publication, "The Alaska Weekly," has a thought well worth consideration by all of us, when he says that if the New Deal, as President Roosevelt dreams it, is a failure, civilization is also a failure. In his handling of the currency question, for example, the President has failed to satisfy either the silverites or the goldbugs. That is the gist of my opening paragraphs. But that far from signifies the interests of the mass of the people have not been in the mind of the President when he takes action.

Heartening, indeed, are the words of President Roosevelt in launching the "New Deal" when he admitted the urgent necessity in this country for experimentation and the probability of error in any scheme offered. He did not promise perfection or anything approaching Utopia.

Much of the howling about the alleged failure of the Roosevelt policies comes from people who do not think. How many men and women go in for any other reading than that of the daily paper? And we all know most papers nowadays devote much space to propaganda; in fact, more space to an attempt to tell the reader what to think than to straight-out presentation of the news. "Newspaper" is a misnomer, if ever there was one.

* * *

With the wide interest created in the federal government colonization plan in the Mantanuska Valley in Alaska, discussions are rife as to other sections of the northern territory suitable for families going up from the Middle West. One section that is promising, according to well-informed Alaskans, is on the Kenai Peninsula. It is pointed out Moose Pass, Cooper Landing, the Kenai, and Russian Rivers and the Cook Inlet-Homer section can support at least 100,000 people.

MEMBERS ATTEND HOME BREAKFAST

Several members of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, attended a breakfast given at the Native Daughters Home, 555 Baker street, San Francisco, last Sunday morning.

All the presiding grand officers of the Native Daughters acted as hostesses, including Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham of El Carmelo Parlor. An interesting program was presented, with each grand officer giving a brief history of the section of the state where she resides. As a gift from the grand officers a beautiful palm was presented to the Home in honor of Palm Sunday.

In commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of El Carmelo Parlor and in appreciation of having a grand officer, the charter members of El Carmelo Parlor presented a handsome Mexican vase to the Home. The presentation was made at the breakfast by Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham.

The others in attendance included: Mesdames Hattie Kelly, Christine Hume, Florence Hopman, Lorraine Wall, Elsie Thomson, Theresa Sullivan and Rena Mathias, and the Misses Pauline Gregoire and Marge O'Connor.

BENEFIT FUND SHOW WILL BE GREAT EVENT

Committees Reported Much Interest Manifested In Entertainment

The last meeting of the various committees was called in Station No. 2 quarters last Wednesday evening, and all of the committees reported everything in readiness for the greatest entertainment that has ever been offered to the people of Daly City.

There was a meeting at Station No. 1 quarters Wednesday evening and the members were notified that was the dead line to get their advertisements in, as they would be given to the printers on Thursday.

The talent committee reports that they have obtained more high class talent, so that you will be getting two hours of splendid entertainment as well as the dancing.

This is the last chance to call your attention to this entertainment given by your fire department for the benefit of the Widows and Orphans Fund to be held in the Jefferson High School Auditorium on Saturday evening, April 27.

The Daly City Band will start the show at 7:45 sharp.

STATE CONTROL OF ROADS PLAN HAS NEW ANGLE

Pressure Being Brought To Bear On Legislators To Secure Its Passage

Defeated in the Senate Roads and Highways Committee, sponsors of legislation which seeks to usurp for the state government the control of all local roads are attempting to enlist support through intimations that communities will not get funds for projects under the Federal Work Relief plan unless the centralized control measures go through the Legislature.

As a result of this political move, members of the Senate who oppose the centralized road grab have received authentic information from Washington, D. C., that local projects which seek funds from the federal government are in no way dependent on the proposal to give the state the control of all local roads.

It is pointed out that if the State Department of Public Works attempts to use influence in connection with these projects in order to get legislative votes, it is positive proof that the centralized road control measures are not in the interest of economy, but of politics.

On top of this comes the demand by Senator D. Jack Metzger of Red Bluff that Earl Lee Kelly, director of the State Department of Public highway relief jobs were recently Works, explain why 1500 men on laid off.

"I am going to make inquiry into this layoff," said Senator Metzger, "to see if it is a club against supervisors who fought the unified highway program. This is no time to throw unemployed men back on the county relief rolls. The whole thing will bear inquiry."

As the situation in the Legislature stands proponents of the centralized road control measures have mustered but little support for their bills. Legislative observers predict that the proponents' next move, as already manifested, is to "bear down" in the various counties to change the tone of public opinion, which had overwhelmingly manifested itself in opposition to the road grab plan.

The Senate committee has definitely and flatly refused to send the bills to the floor, either with or without favorable recommendation. In addition to this, a poll of the senators shows a wide margin of opposition.

The situation in the Assembly is even more definitely opposed to the bills. This week the Assembly Roads and Highways Committee decided to do nothing about the measures unless the Senate committee makes some move.

This leaves the proponents with the only alternative of "moving in" on the legislators with pressure from "back home." Legislators are sending warnnigs to their constituents to beware of implied threats that communities must "line up and take program" if they want to get local work relief projects.

Thus far, moves in this direction have proved a boomerang on the proponents, because the more apparent such pressure becomes the more it proves the argument of the opposition that state control of all local roads would set up a complete dictatorship in which local rights and home rule would be destroyed.

BOULDER DAM TO BE REPRODUCED

Boulder Dam, one of the inspirational themes of the California Pacific International Exposition opening at San Diego May 29, will be reproduced there as a working model, scaled in perfect detail with the original. It will involve the making of the largest contour map ever attempted, it is said.

There will be a "practical" lake created by the dam's building, in the model, and will have a capacity of 2800 gallons of water. Through the use of an elevator with a rise of eight feet while scenery descends, visitors will be given the illusion of ascending 600 feet from the floor of Black Rock Canyon.

In connection with the dam's model will be a museum of pictures and objects associated with the construction of the great structure, for the study of those technically educated.

BOYS ASSOCIATION ANNUAL BANQUET

The Vista Grande Grammar School Boys Association will hold its third annual banquet and reunion during the coming month of June.

The following graduates of the classes of 1914-15-16 were elected to the board of directors: Allan Ryan, George Prescott, Harry (Duke) Levin,. Manuel Morais, Connie Lyons, Abe Levin, Richard Parker, Fred Kirchubel, Michael Maisler and Bob Connolly.

Past graduates desiring to attend are requested to send their name and address to R. J. Connolly, 9 Lafayette street, San Francisco.

JOTTINGS FROM THE LOCAL FIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Johnson of Templeton avenue are receiving congratulations of their friends on the birth of a nine pound son on Tuesday of this week in Sutter Hospital.

Mrs. A. Kohlman of 814 Bellevue avenue will be chairman of the regular monthly whist of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in the Daly City Auditorium on Friday evening, April 26.

The regular monthly whist of Hillcrest Circle of Druids will be held in Masonic Hall on Monday evening next.

Mr. James Carr of Peoria street met with a painful accident, Friday of last week, while at work on Pier 46 in San Francisco. A huge piece of iron fell on his foot and broke one of his toes.

Mr. Harry Wiley of Sacramento is a visitor at the home of his niece, Mrs. Jack Coleman of Crocker avenue. While here Mr. Wiley has been busy painting the exterior of the Coleman home, greatly improving its appearance.

The children of the General Pershing School were given an Easter party at the school, Friday afternoon of last week, by the members of the P. T. A. Mrs. Mazie Boyle acted as chairman. Easter eggs were distributed to the pupils.

Miss Norma Evans of Winchester street is enjoying Easter week as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Paul Modena of Half Moon Bay.

Mrs. Mary White of Theta avenue spent last Friday in Napa with her daughter, Mrs. Bess Cinnamond.

Mrs. Mary White, accompanied by her son, Harold White, of Theta avenue, attended the polo game in Golden Gate Park on Sunday.

SMOKES FOR BASE HOSPITAL PATIENTS

Undaunted by the storm of last Sunday, the members of the Veterans Welfare committee of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, N. G. D. W., journeyed down to the Base Hospital at Palo Alto. They delighted the "boys" by bringing them cartons of cigarettes, home made candy, cookies and nuts.

Some of the veterans in Ward 12 do not as yet receive compensation and they greatly appreciate these little luxuries and are always glad to see the Native Daughters.

Among those who made the trip were: Mesdames Rena Mathias, Alice Oldham, Elsie Clemens and Misses Pauline Gregoire, Anita Barner, Lucille Young and Margaret Allison.

GOVERNMENT IS BUSY PUTTING UP NEW EXHIBITS

Number Of Officials From Various Agencies Show Great Interest

Work of the United States government and the State of California at the California Pacific International Exposition opening in San Diego, May 29, is now proceeding apace, according to word received here by the local headquarters of the exposition in the Palace Hotel

During the past week more than two dozen official representatives of several governmental agencies participating in the exposition reported at Balboa Park, the fair grounds.

Among the arrivals in the south was Joseph W. Hiscox, federal commissioner from Washington, who reported that seventeen departments in the national capital are working, on an emergency basis, preparing exhibits to be shown in the exposition. These will be shipped on an express train of fifteen cars and installed complete before the opening date.

The federal exhibit palace, for which Congress appropriated $125,000, is now being built and will be ready for the opening. An additional $225,000 was voted to prepare, install and maintain displays in it.

Adolph Muehleisen, San Diegan, was named California's commissioner at the exposition by Governor Merriam this week. Muehleisen announced the displays in the California State Building will be arranged to give a complete picture of the commonweath's government at work. In addition, most of the counties of the state will have exhibits in the same building.

A group of ten federal officials arrived in San Diego by plane this week, from Washington and intermediate points and went to Balboa Park to break ground for the FHA display and demonstration of how the public may benefit from the National Housing Act. In this party were Col. W. D. Flanders, national director of the field division of the FHA from Washington, with Troy B. Hewett, Clyde Powell and Paul Best.

Alfred B. Swinerton, regional director of the seven western states, Austin L. Black, deputy regional director and Clifford C. Anglim, Northern California director, all of San Francisco, also attended.

TOWNSEND PLAN MEET WEDNESDAY

Prominent speakers will be on hand at the Daly City Auditorium, Wednesday evening, April 24, at 8 o'clock, to address the audience on the merits of the Townsend Plan.

On that evening the public is invited to attend this meeting and the sponsors assure an interesting and enlightening discussion on the subject.

NEWS OF OLD GLORY AUXILIARY AND COUNCIL

(Ethel Dorn, Pub. Chairman)

On our last regular meeting night the Auxiliary joined with the post in a social evening. The entertainment was arranged by the comrades and consisted of amateur talent, and was greatly enjoyed by all.

At a late hour the ladies served coffee and doughnuts.

The Post and Auxiliary are planning to make the first meeting of each month a social evening and the second meeting an all business session.

San Mateo - Santa Clara Counties Council held their regular monthly meeting and official inspection last Saturday night at Redwood City.

We were greatly honored by a visit from our department president, Margaret Hubbard, who had just returned from a visit to the San Joaquin Valley Auxiliaries.

Department Secretary Iva Neely was present and was asked to install two officers for the council.

Claire Lynch of San Jose, was present to inspect the council and gave us a very good report on our progress.

After the meeting the ladies of Old Glory served refreshments to the comrades and ladies.

How about the drill team? You haven't heard much about us, but we are doing big things. We have been having a series of dinners to raise money for our uniforms and to pay our expenses to the convention at Bakersfield.

Genenieve Linzer will be the hostess at a drill team luncheon this Saturday, Apirl 20. Members are asked to come and bring your friends for lunch. You'll have a good time.

WOODROW WILSON VISTA GRANDE PARENT TEACHERS

Prominent speakers were Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president of San Jose Teachers College; Mr. Alonzo Baker, editor of Pacific Press Publishing Association; Miss Helen Heffernan, chief of Division of Elementary Education of the state.

The new district officers, with Mrs. R. D. Richards as president, were installed by Mrs. H. Ward Campbell.

Members from this unit attending were Mesdames Barker, Linden, Sorg, Woodside, Thomey, Puzy, Hanselman, Jones and Hill.

The poster made by Evan Gillespie, student of Woodrow Wilson School, was given honorable mention and sent to the state committee for final judging.

There will be an executive board meeting in the Woodrow Wilson School on Tuesday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. This is a very important meeting.

The regular meeting of the unit will be held in the library in the Woodrow Wilson School on next Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. J. J. Garland, past district president, will be guest of honor and will give a talk. Everyone is urged to attend. There will be an interesting program of music, directed by Miss Mascini.

On May 15 Woodrow Wilson Unit will participate in a joint installation with the other units of the Jefferson District of the new officers for the coming year at the Jefferson Union High School.

Mrs. Pearl Jones was elected delegate to the state convention, which will be held in San Diego May 27 to 31. The convention body will attend the opening of the San Diego Fair.

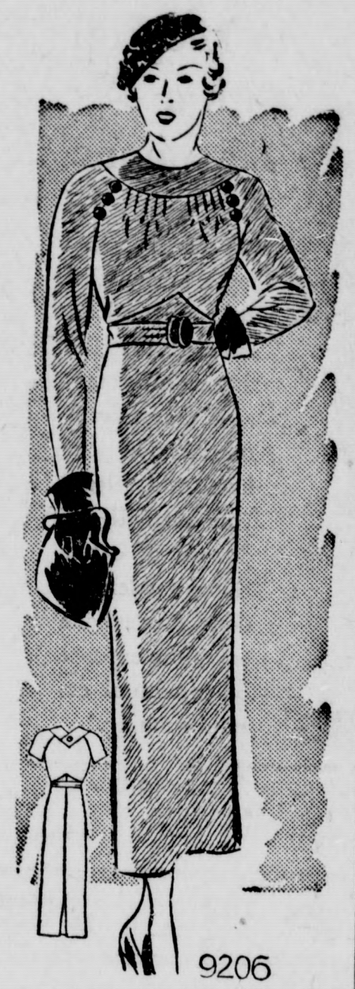
IDEAL FROCK FOR AFTERNOON WEAR

PATTERN 9206



Something different in the way of smartness is this youthful afternoon dress. Its yoke, round in front and buttoning into a chic triangle at the back, points the way to shoulder width, which every style-conscious woman knows is most important this season. The smart bodice is tucked at the yoke-line for flattering fullness. Then, too, the skirt—coming to a nice point above the waistline, back and front—boasts a slimming back seam and kickpleat for extra "back interest." This design would be particularly lovely in metal flecked crepe, either silk or wool. Short sleeves are included with the pattern.

Pattern 9206 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3 yards 39 inch fabric.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coin or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed Sew Chart included.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Knowing detectives are on her trail, she disappears.

McNamara chuckled. Flynn and Angelloti would waste a great deal of time watching that apartment house in vain. Nance, discovering Ella Cates had moved, had sought quarters elsewhere. What puzzled McNamara, however, was the girl's failure to communicate with him or Lanny; and he knew now that she did not intend to. The fact that she had purchased a letter of credit was proof that she intended leaving the country, and the more the excellent fellow contemplated this impending move the more inclined was he to regard it as a not unmixed blessing.

The more he thought the matter over, the more inclined did he become to take a practical and policeman-like view of the situation. While Nance remained in San Francisco she would be a constant menace to himself and Lanny; if captured she might, during one of her uncontrolled moments, consider it a great joke to tell the world how she had been enabled to escape capture so long.

"I can't baby the world," he decided. "I'll let her go. She'll probably live abroad, and when her letter of credit is gone she may remember who she is long enough to draw more checks. I can always get a line on her through the bank, and if Steve and Lanny still insist on salvaging this nut I'll tell them where to find her. Me, I'm through. If I keep this pace up I'll be as big a nut as she is."

There is more than a modicum of truth in the ancient adage, "Out of sight, out of mind." Dan McNamara lived a very full life; and when Nance Belden had definitely passed beyond his ken and he knew himself safe at last from the prying of Messrs. Flynn and Angelloti into his private affairs, he forgot the girl, for pressing matters of great importance claimed his attention and he required more first-class assistance than he was receiving. He resolved, therefore, to give Flynn and Angelloti a week in which to make up their minds they had lost the trail; then to call them in.

On the sixth day, however, he received information that the doughty pair were still as busy as two pups with a feather duster. A beautiful lady called on him at his office and told him so.

"And who might you be?" he demanded.

"I'm Susan Engelbright."

"I am not aware that I have the pleasure of your acquaintance, Miss Engelbright."

"You haven't. I was sent up from Oakland."

"Oh! Alias Sapphire Susie! I've heard of you lately."

"Perhaps. I hocked three twelve-carat sapphire rings to raise money, and the papers called me Sapphire Susie after that."

"I see you got them out of hock again, Susie."

The girl nodded. "Nance Belden got them out for me."

"Part of the bargain for smuggling that letter out of San Quentin for her, I suppose."

"Never mind what it was for," Sapphire Susie smiled archly and unafraid. "I earned it and she kept her word."

"Check or cash?" McNamara was frightened. If Sapphire Susie had been given a check, then she knew Nance Belden's real name and the name of her bank. And that would be fatal.

"I don't know. I gave her the pawn tickets and she got back the rings. I don't know just how."

"When?" He was relieved.

"A week ago tomorrow."

"And you say Detective Sergeant Flynn has been giving you a bad half hour?"

"Well, that's his business. Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin and naturally he's interested in apprehending her. You were recognized by the guard at the main gate two weeks before Nance escaped. Miss Lanning, a friend of the Belden girl, had visited the prisoner that day, and since Miss Lanning was the only visitor Nance Belden had in San Quentin, naturally she was suspected of carrying a letter for delivery to the men who helped Nance escape. You rode down to Greenbrae with Miss Lanning, and she slipped the letter to you, of course. Flynn knows that. But why come to me with your tale of woe?"

"I've run straight since getting out of the pen. I served my time and I want to be let alone—that's why! Flynn told me that if I didn't come through and tell him where he could find Nance Belden he'd see to it that something nasty happened to me. I don't know where Nance Belden is. And I want protection from Patrick Flynn."

"You seem pretty sure of me, don't you?"

"Well, Nance told me that you were one human being. And I called on Miss Lanning last night to tell her to warn Nance that the dicks were after her, and Miss Lanning told me to see you about it. She said you'd see I got a square deal."

'She did so, now? How did Miss Lanning treat you otherwise?"

"She kissed me and gave me a hundred dollars and told me to be as good as I could. The old girl is sure a darling."

"Did you ask her for the hundred?"

"Of course not."

The chief eyed her owlishly, for he distrusted Sapphire Susie and wondered if she might not be working in the interests of Flynn and Angelloti.

"This is interesting," he admitted heavily. "Of course I only keep in touch with the upper office through the captain of detectives. If he set Flynn on this job he should have interviewed you a couple of weeks ago. Seems to me he has overlooked a good bet. If he'd had you under surveillance a week ago he'd have picked up Nance Belden when she came to you to deliver the rings. Flynn's a crackerjack detective," he added sadly, "but this looks as if he's slipping."

"That bird don't slip very far, take it from me, Chief. He met me on the street the day before yesterday and noticed I was wearing my big ring and my eardrops. 'Hello, kid,' he says, 'I see you got your sapphires on again.' I says to him, 'Fall dead, you bum,' and walked on. And the next night he came up to my room. 'Nance Belden got them sapphires out of hock for you, Susie, my dear,' he says kindly. 'I want that frail. Where is she?'"

"He's Got Me Scared to Death," Sapphire Susie Declared.

"And you wouldn't tell him, even if you could?"

"That's a fact. I wouldn't snitch on her."

"You wouldn't expect me to inferfere in the work of a detective sergeant when he appears to be doing a good job, would you, Susie? But I give you my word, Susie, that if you run straight in this city I'll see to it that you're not harassed. Of course you helped Nance Belden to escape from San Quentin, and I know it, but I can't prove it; if I could I'd put you in the birdcage this minute. And I'll not put Flynn off the case, although if he gets too rough I'll stop him."

"He's got me scared to death," Sapphire Susie declared, and commenced to weep a little; whereat McNamara realized she had been really frightened. She shook his hand warmly, thanked him and departed.

For several minutes McNamara sat thinking, a smile, faintly tender, illuminating his rugged countenance. So Lanny had kissed Sapphire Susie and given her a hundred dollars and begged her to be a good girl in the future. What a rare good sport Lanny was! And how good God had been to all concerned! In their pursuit of Nance, Flynn and Angelloti had followed such a hot trail they had forgotten Sapphire Susie was a pal of Nance's, but afterwards, when the trail grew cold, they had suddenly remembered her.

That Flynn was a marvel, and McNamara sighed to think the fellow could not be promoted instantly. In all probability he had not at first connected Nance Belden with the glory of Susie's sapphires. Undoubtedly he had jumped to the conclusion that the girl had been up to her old trick of blackmailing some wealthy and socially prominent masculine jackass. So he had looked up her record in the police files. Here he had discovered something that must have convinced him of Susie's total innocence of sapphires during her trial; certainly she had not carried them to San Quentin with her, and the obvious conclusion was that she had pawned them to raise money to pay her attorney. In the hope of discovering the identity of Susie's latest victim (who, he assumed, had redeemed them for her) Flynn had thereupon made a round of the pawnshops and located the one from which the jewels had lately been redeemed; from the pawnbroker he had secured a description of the one who had redeemed them. No pawnbroker would be likely to forget Nance Belden's nose!

McNamara shuddered. If Nance should visit Sapphire Susie now, she would undoubtedly walk straight into the arms of the waiting Flynn or Angelloti.

Well, Nance Belden had stolen a dozen pairs of silk hose, but apparently Penelope Gatlin paid her debts. The chief wondered if he had loaned Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin two hundred dollars, for of course they were two separate and distinct personalities inhabiting the same body. If Nance Belden had accepted the loan, then McNamara could kiss the money good-by. If, on the other hand, Penelope Gatlin had accepted it, then, some day, when Nance had changed places with Penelope, he would get it back. Well, he could trace her progress through the world by the drafts she would cash. Her bank in San Jose would give him that information.

He took down the telephone and called the bank. Yes, a draft had just come in. Drawn for four hundred and thirty-five dollars in favor of the French line, dated three days previously at New York. It had come across the continent by air mail. McNamara thanked the president of the bank and called up the French line's San Francisco office. After some difficulty he discovered that four hundred and thirty-five dollars was payment of one first cabin passage to Havre and that the Ile de France had sailed from New York during the past three days.

Instantly Dan McNamara shot a straight telegram to police headquarters in New York, requesting that the passenger list of the Ile de France be checked to see whether Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin had taken passage on her. Four hours later he received a reply to the effect that Nance Belden was not aboard but that Penelope Gatlin was.

"Nothing is lost if you know where it is," McNamara decided happily, and sent a cable to the prefect of police at Havre, requesting him to pick up Penelope Gatlin on her arrival at that port, shadow her and report by cable, collect, the girl's destination, the names and addresses of those who should meet her and any other information that would aid in keeping track of the girl.

The following day McNamara sent for Detective-Sergeants Flynn and Angelloti. As they ranged themselves, more or less at attention, in front of his desk, the chief leaned back in his chair and bent upon the pair a long, severe and penetrating look. They grew a little fidgety before he spoke.

"Well, boys, how are your private affairs prospering?"

Both shrugged, unwilling to be definite.

"They are unprosperous," the chief challenged, "so I have called you in to express the hope that you are now quite willing to abandon your private practice and return to work for the city and county of San Francisco. You draw salary from the taxpayers, you know. I may have been mistaken, Angelloti, but I thought I saw you out in Mission recently when you were supposed to be working on that racketeer killing over in North Beach. However, I'll overlook that on the assumption that you permitted yourself to be led astray by Flynn. Flynn, you lay off Sapphire Susie until that enterprising young woman does something you can pin on her. Then bring her in."

"She's done something and I'll pin it on her yet," Flynn growled, "and you know what it is." Flynn, being Irish, was unwilling that his chief should regard him as deficient in intelligence and enterprise.

"We understand each other thoroughly, Flynn. You've been after that Belden girl and you've made a mess of it." He opened his desk drawer and drew out two envelopes. One was addressed to Flynn and the other to Angelloti and both envelopes bore the return address of a prominent New York hotel, but were neither stamped nor postmarked. "These two envelopes came in a large envelope addressed to me," McNamara explained. "They're sealed!" He handed each detective his letter and watched as they opened them and drew forth typewritten letters and two hundred and fifty dollars in bills. Flynn's letter was, undoubtedly, a carbon copy of Angelloti's.

Flynn perused his letter and handed it to the chief, who read:

"Dear Mr. Flynn:

"You poor dear, you have worked so hard and so intelligently and in such dreadfully hard luck that my heart goes out to you. You were working for the reward, of course—no doubt because you needed the money. You and Mr. Angelloti would have had to divide two hundred and fifty dollars had you recaptured me, but just to prove I'm a sport and not holding any mean little grudge, I'm sending you each two hundred and fifty dollars. Please be good and try to forget all the unpleasant incidents. You will never get me now, so do give up your attempts, like good boys."

The letter was unsigned.

"How much did you get, Angelloti?" McNamara queried softly.

"Two fifty, Chief."

Right to Second Marriage Chance

Arguments For and Against the Severance of the Marital Bond.

The widowers of Brazil have their fingers crossed.

From a question raised recently in their gay capital city, Rio, it would appear to be illegal for widowers to remarry.

Everything was all right until a case before the marriage registrar brought up the point that under the law marriage cannot be dissolved except by annullment. Therefore, said the registrar, if the constitution does not provide for dissolution of marriage ties by death, how can widowers remarry?

The Superior court of Brazil has been appealed to for a decision. The widowers of Brazil will doubtless have a competent advocate to plead their cause, and everything will be all right again. But the situation is interesting for the serious comment it has aroused. It would be a good thing for this country, several people said at once, if we were to emulate Brazil, and make marriage harder to get out of.

"If remarriage were less easy for everybody," they contend, "there would be less separating and divorcing and more successful marriage."

Maybe. One must admit it might help with young couples who are facing their first disillusionment, if that reproach of "What I might have had" could not be followed by "What I can still have!" Doubtless the knowledge of absolute finality in marriage would be conducive to the single-minded effort to make that marriage a success.

But, a woman writer continues, in her comment, what about the cases where a second chance has resulted in bringing happiness, in making up for what was really a mistake which all the effort in the world could not conceal? Though as a rule it is true enough that the most important element for success in marriage is what we ourselves bring to it, there have been cases where a person who could not get along with a first husband or wife did succeed with a second.

For my part, I am glad it is not "up to me" to make the laws affecting in this way the happiness of so many humans who think and feel from different viewpoints. It is not hard to see some benefits in more hard and fast marriage laws. On the other hand, I should not welcome a world which made difficulties for anybody who yearned for a second chance.

Customs and Costumes Take Root in England

"The celebration in London of the centenary of the Old Bailey, the famous criminal court depicted by so many writers and the scene of many of Charles Dickens' delineations, recalls some of the oddities of lawyers' dress in England and the conservatism of the customs," Victor B. Bennett, of the American Express company relates.

"The reason why barristers wear black gowns is that members of the profession went into mourning for Queen Anne. Though Queen Anne is dead, the profession in England keeps on mourning. The English are conservative in the matter of dress. The Knights of the Garter continue to wear short capes and hoods, the same as in medieval days. The clocks on ladies' hose were originally put on to hide the gusset seams when the stockings were of cloth, and have continued as part of hosiery attire ever since."

RED MOUNTAIN MINE TAKEN BY INTERNATIONAL

Vancouver Firm To Operate Old Producer In State Of Washington

Says Sidney Norman in the Vancouver Sun:

Boundary Red Mountain mine, 40 miles northeast of Bellingham, Washington, in Whatcom county, and three-quarters of a mile south of the international boundary, in the rugged Mount Baker country, has been taken over by International Gold ,Mines Ltd., a Vancouver company, organized under laws of this province and sponsored by Chalmers && Richardson, brokers.

The property is an old producer, with a record of approximately $1,000,000 in gold and for many years, subsequent to 1915, was operated by Boundary Red Mountain Mining Company, controlled by George Wingfield, the mining man of Nevada, who made a great fortune out of Goldfield Consolidated, at Goldfield, Nevada.

By the latter company, the property was equipped with ten-stamp mill, hydro-electric plant on Slesse Creek and accommodations for a crew of forty men. The plant will handle from 40 to 50 tons daily, and a crew of 14 men is now putting the plant and flumes in order for immediate operation.

Persistent Vein

The main vein is remarkably persistent, and consists of alabaster quartz of average width of over three feet in diorite, containing free gold and tellurides.

Past operations have been upon ore running around $15 per ton free gold, with the metal valued at $20.67 an ounce, equal to around $25 per ton under present conditions.

Some years ago litigation arose after the controlling factor of the old company met with financial reverses in Nevada, and a judgment of $237,000 obtained against the company was only set aside a few days prior to acquisition of the property by the present company.

Developed To Depth

Property is developed by five principal levels, of which three are driven from surface and the others intermediates. The lowest level is known as the 1200, driven 2256 feet through diorite to the vein and about 800 feet upon it.

F. J. Crossland, M. E., who made the examination, estimates ore blocked out to the value of $250,000, with possibilities of greater tonnage with a small amount of work.

The company has also acquired the adjoining Sun group of claims, upon which $20,000 has been spent in development and which show ore occurrences identical with those of Red Mountain and which can be economically attacked through the latter workings.

Road Under Consideration

Property is reached at this time from Vancouver to Vedder Crossing by auto road and thence by logging road 14 miles. From that point a steep mountain trail, with 35 switchbacks is followed for 15 miles, 8 miles of which is up Slesse Creek, to the company's power plant.

A road from Bellingham to the area is now under consideration by the State of Washington and may be constructed during the present year. It would then be possible to reach the mine from Vancouver, via Bellingham, in four hours' travel by automobile.

International Gold Mines, Ltd., is capitalized at 3,000,000 shares of 50 cents par, of which 950,000 shares have been issued for properties and remain in escrow at the discretion of the provincial superintendent of brokers.

The present offering of the stock is 500,000 shares, leaving 1,550,000 shares in the treasury after present financing is completed.

Visited In 922

The writer visited this property in the fall of 1922, when it was under control of Mr. Wingfield, the lowest level at that time being the 500, where the vein had been developed over a total length of 1400 feet without a break of any consequence, with widths varying from a few inches to as much as 11 feet and with average over the entire length of around 3 feet.

It was said at that time by the then manager, R. J. Bonnemort, E. M., a graduate of Utah Schol of Mines, that the vein could be traced on surface over the mountain for a total distance of 4500 feet.

Milling was commenced in April, 1916, and in the following eight months 10,441 tons was milled, with gross recovered value of $148,578, millheads running $14.33, and resultwell on the road to complete recovery. ing in net profit of $68,535, or at the rate of around $90,000 annually.

Shut Down By War

In 1917 war conditions necessitated reduction of operations to a minimum, the recovery being $131,918, with net profit of $36,634.

In 1918 the power plant was destroyed by fire and the mine closed down after $30,000 had been spent in development through the 500 level, where an ore shoot had been followed for 300 feet, and 293 feet below the 300 level, with average value of $20.73, old gold price, as determined by 5-foot sampling by the Wingfield engineering staff.

It was not until 1922, just before the writer's visit, that the plant was rebuilt and the workings reopened. Further misfortune was met with, however, when the upper tramway terminal was burned down on September 11 of that year.

Nevertheless, up till that date, 6018 tons had been milled, with net recovery of $65,564, heads running $12,267 and tails $1,372, indicating recovery of $10,895 on the plates.

Work up till that time had proved a most persistent vein, and that narrowing or buldging had little effect upon values. Two or three years' milling reserves were in sight, with every promise of persistence to greater depths, subsequently proved at the 1200 level.

Working Conditions Good

Working conditions were of the best, with very little timbering needed, the walls standing with minimum of sloughing. Timbering was wholly confined to stoping operations and in construction of ore shoots. The mine made considerable water, at that time, about 500 gallons a minute flowing from No. 3 level.

A new power plant, 2½ miles below the plant then in use, was subsequently built, with effective head of 200 feet, delivered in 2000 feet of flume, developing 400 horsepower with minimum of 25 second-feet head.

The equipment included two 510 cubic foot two stage compressors, driven by 100-horsepower Pelton and a 150 K.V.A. generator, actuated by 25-horsepower Pelton, supplied heat and light to the camp.

$13,000 Gold In Month

From 1927 to 1932 the property was operated under lease by a former superintendent of the old company. A. H. Westfall who, with a crew of seven men and under very adverse conditions was able to make good profit, extracting more than $13,000 gold in the last month of his lease.

There seems to be no good reason why with necessary modest capital expenditure, the property should not rejoin the list of producers within the next few months.

In all probability it will be found equipment, either tables or flotation, necessary to install additional mill to effect the maximum saving, since ore from the lower levels appears to carry some values in tellurides. It is understood that this improvement is already under consideration.

Company's Officers

Officers of International Gold are Major Victor MacLean, M. C., of Kelly, Douglas & Co., president; Cecil A. Morse, president Morse Hardware Co., Bellingham, vice president; John L. Noble, manager British Columbia Fire Underwriters' Association, treasurer, and John H. Morgan, New Westminister; Dr. Edwin H. McEwen, New Westminister; John C. Pierce, manager Leopold Hotel, and chairman mining division of Bellingham Chamber of Commerce, additional directors.

How Fast Do We Drive?

More data on average driving speeds gives proof that the general run of motor vehicle operators is not nearly so fast as represented.

Some thousands of car owners actually timed on the open highway showed a range of speed of from 12 to 68 miles an hour. For all the talk of fast driving—most of it by motorists themselves—there was not a single 70-mile-an-hour performer in the large group. Eighty-five per cent proceeded at a rate of less than 45 miles an hour, while only one and one-half per cent drove above 55. The average speed was found to be slightly less than 40 miles per hour.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: What is a Pitcher Plant?

Answer: A family of plants having pitcher shaped leaves that form traps for insects, which are digested and absorbed as food. This method of obtaining nourishment places the pitcher plants in the group known as carnivorous. The pitcher shape results from a peculiar folding together of the leaf margins, permitting rain water to collect in the receptacles. At the mouth of each pitcher is a thick growth of bristly hairs, all pointed downward and inward, and when insects, attracted by a sweet secretion within the rim, fly into the trap they are unable to turn back, because of the hairs and consequently are drowned. Pitcher plants are becoming scarce because their interesting habits are an irresistable temptation to gatherers of wild flowers.

Question: What is a flood plain?

Answer: A plain formed of sediment deposited by the overflow of a river. This formation is clearly illustrated along the banks of the Mississippi River, where flood plains cover an area of 50,000 square miles.

Question: What is meant by "Ostracism?

Answer: In the days of ancient Athens, it was customary to banish citizens for public offenses. Whether or not a person should be exiled was determined by a general balloting of the voters, the votes being cast by means of earthenware tablets or oyster shells on which the name of the culprit was written. The Greek name for these ballots, "ostrakon," gives us the name ostracism.

Question: What are the species of salmon on the Pacific Coast?

Answer: King salmon, also chinook, quinnot and spring salmon; red salmon, also called sockeye and blueback; coho, also called silversides and silver salmon; humpback, also called pink salmon; chum salmon, also called keta, dog and calico salmon.

Question: What animals furnish fur for the making of felt hats?

Answer: Beaver, rabbit, hare and muskrat. Beaver fur is so scarce it is used very little in hat making.

Old Inner Tubes

Old inner tubes kept around the garage for emergency use may be preserved longer if they are partly inflated and placed in old tire casings.

SAFETY APPEAL URGE PEOPLE WALK FACING TRAFFIC

Safety in walking on highways or on roads or streets where no sidewalk is available consists mainly of keeping as far as possible to the left, so as to face approaching traffic. That rule is emphasized in calling attention to the added need for its observance with the advent of the touring season and increased traffic on highways.

With an eye to safety for pedestrians as well as motorists, California and fifteen other states have laws which make it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, to walk on the right side of a highway. One of these states, Delaware, requires in addition the carrying of a light when walking on a highway at night.

"In walking on the left side you are able to see all approaching traffic," a well known authority says. "This is safer because you can step out of danger in time to avoid being struck if a driver does not see you, because of a turn in the road, or a hill, or because his attention has been momentarily attracted to other objects. And it is easier to look ahead than to keep glancing back over your shoulder, which you must do when walking on the right hand side."

Walking on highways is a particularly dangerous traffic hazard, as evidenced by some 10,000 accidents resulting yearly on this account, the motorists' organization points out. A high percentage of such accidents are fatal. Although collisions between automobiles and pedestrians represented thirty-seven per cent of accidents on streets and highways of the United States last year, the deaths in such cases accounted for nearly one half of all traffic fatalities.

How's the Odometer?

A motorist who thought his car was consuming too much gasoline asked a service man about it. The latter could not believe conditions were as bad as the car owner described them, however; so he checked the speedometer and found an error of more than 20 per cent in the odometer, or distance recording unit. The motorist, as nearly all them do, probably was basing his judgment of gasoline mileage on an odometer that was extremely inaccurate.

Hot Radiator

Never fill a hot radiator with cold water. Sudden pouring of cold water into a hot radiator may cause the motor block to crack. If the radiator is excessively hot a small quantity of water should be added at intervals, allowing the temperature to become equalized gradually.

You'll have to walk fast to keep up with a Telephone

Of course you enjoy a brisk walk! But not when every detail of the day has to be managed that way. A telephone in your home will release your strength for dozens of other things now left undone. A telephone saves the expense of continual errand running.

COLUMN OF NRA BUSINESS FACTS

THE UPWARD SPIRAL

Improvement in business conditions is reflected in editorials gleaned from papers published in widely separated states from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and including such inland commonwealths as Kansas, Michigan and Ohio. In all of these states comment emphasizes the steady upward swirl of the business spiral.

"Business in Southern California," says the Glendale News-Press, "generally showed improvement in 1934. This was a circumstance almost visibly evident to observers in both large and small cities." This paper goes on to say that the most decided advance was in the agricultural area where bank debits reflected the increased amount received for crops and expended by the growers. Automobile sales went up 14 per cent while industrial employment was bettered by 12 per cent.

From North Carolina comes assurance through the Greensboro Record that the rapid recovery of banks in the Tar Heel State "constitutes one of the most chering and amazing chapters in the history of the state's economic and financial progress since the depression." Pointing out that improvement has come a long way since the banking holiday, the Record quotes the prediction of the state bank commissioner that "by the end of this year the resources of North Carolina banks will be almost at the high peak which was shown before 1929."

The Wichita (Kans.) Eagle takes the motor car as the first barometer to record permanently clearing skies. Declaring that automobile output through 1921-29 reflected the state of the popular purse the Eagle believes that the current increased output of cars is indicative of growing public confidence in the upward economic trend of the times. "The new cars everywhere in sight," says the Eagle, "mirror something stronger than a mere hope of better days to come."

"Every day now makes sadder the prophets of gloom," declares the Journal, Hamilton, Ohio, adding: "There is little doubt remaining that business is moving upward and forward. The first 342 industrial corporations to report for 1934 show an increase in earnings of 29 per cent. Busy retail business and auto production surpassing all expectations, testify to consistent gains."

On the outlook for hopeful signs the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette finds encouragement in the report of the United States Chamber of Commerce that the total manufacturing pay roll in this country is now larger my some 1,300,000 workers than it was two years ago and concludes: "For some reason or other—government, private, or a combination of both—production seems to be clearly gaining. That alone should be recognized as a highly encouraging symptom. * * *"

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Wage Increases of About 35 Per Cent and a cut in hours of approximately 20 per cent, compared with those prevalent July 1, 1933, are expected to result from adoption of the wholesale and retail automobile sales, supply, repair, maintenance and service industry code for the Territory of Hawaii, approved by the National Industrial Recovery Board March 26. The Code establishes a basic 44 hour maximum work week, with stated exceptions and a $12 minimum weekly wage. A Territorial Code Authority will consist of 8 members equitably selected to represent various interests in the industry.

A Code of Fair Competition has been approved by the NIRB for the zinc industry. It provides for a basic 40 hour week averaged over 3 month periods at minimum wages varying between 30 and 47½ cents per hour. The hour order of approval limits the averaging provisions operation to 60 days after which they shall be automatically stayed and the Code amended, and it also requires an impartial investigator to review conditions in certain areas for the purpose of reporting to the Board the amount of adjustment of Code wages possible in those districts. The NIRB after reviewing the report may deem it necessary to modify the minimum Code wage provisions in the surveyed areas. There are approximately 12,800 people employed in the industry, two-thirds of them underground.

Members of the Research and Planning Committee for the Cotton Textile Industry have been announced by the NIRB as follows: Mr. Goldthwaite H. Dorr, president of the Cotton Textile Institute; Mr. Paul B. Halstead, secretary of the Code Authority; Mr. Ray Bell, president and secretary of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants and Mr. James T. Davis of NRA's Research and Planning Division. This committee is directed to investigate conditions in the industry and to formulate proposed action toward adjusting available productive capacity in those groups of the Industry where it may be necessary to meet present inadequate consumer demand.

A Code for the Middle Atlantic preparing and/or wholesaling division of the fishery industry has been approved by the NIRB. The Code covers approximately 700 establishments with an annual business of 40 million dollars, employing about 7600 wage earners. Office employees are restricted to 40 hour week and an 8 hour day with a proviso that during any 12 weeks in any one year, they may work 45 hours per week. Other employees may not work more than 54 hours a week or 9 hours per day. Office employees are to be paid a minimum wage of $18 per week with exceptions for office boys and certain wage differentials according to population. A representative Executive Committee is provided for to administer the divisional Code under the Code Authority for the fishery industry.

The NIRB has Restored Temporily the right of certain manufacturers of cotton or linen dresses wholesaling between $22.50 and $45 per dozen to operate under the cotton garment code. An impartial commission is to be appointed to study the matter of competition between the dress manufacturing industry and the cotton garment industry and of facts pertinent to the overlapping of definitions of codes for these two industries. The Administrative order stays sections of previous orders affecting the classification of manufacturers under the cotton garment code and the use of labels on all dresses not specically included within the cotton garment code.

Admendments to the Baking Code for a Group of "semi-handcraft shops" have been approved by the NIRB. These were requested to bridge the gap between wholly mechanized shops limited to 40 hours per week and the handcraft shops working 48 hours per week. Semi-handcraft shops are those in which at least 80 per cent of the total working hours of production employees is spent in hand operations. The new section states that these employees shall not be permitted to work more than 44 hours per week.

The Code Authority for the Pretzel Industry has proposed an admendment to the approved code which would permt it to work with the Department of Agriculture in order to formulate standards of ingredients, products, nomenclature, terminology and packaging for the industry. The Executive Secretary of the Code Authority shall be entitled to obtain information from industry members relative to the formulation of these standards, and within 3 months after the approval of this provision, the Code Authority wishes to submit a set of standards for the Pretzel Industry which after necessary administrative procedure shall be made part of the Code and binding upon every member of the Industry.

INTELLIGENT USE OF AUTOMOBILE HORNS

Intelligent use of the horn bespeaks a motorists who applies intelligence to all phases of his driving. Horns generally either are used too much or not enough—rarely in the proper proportion, according to National Automobile Club. The motorist who uses his horn to frighten a pedestrian out of his path is a menace on the highways and should be treated accordingly. The driver who blows his horn vociferously to persuade the traffic policeman to give him the "go" sign deserves a reprimand.

Every motorist at some time or other has had the misfortune to have his engine stall. Then is the time the horns come out in force! Sensible, indeed, and most helpful, too, is the motorist who realizes that a man isn't blocking traffic because he wants to, isn't struggling with a balking automobile for the fun of it, and refrains from "standing on the horn."

Horns have their vital uses. It would be impossible to drive cars without them. But it should be remembered also that horns can be a danger and a menace, that they can contribute to accidents as well as prevent them. And none should forget that one's good breeding certainly is clearly indicated in proper, discreet horn use under all circumstances.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, April 21, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation" (Hebrews 9: 28). Other Bible citations will include: "But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us; For through him we both have access by one spirit unto the Father" (Ephesians 2: 13, 14, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage" (p. 18).

STATE LAW DEMANDS CLEAR WINDSHIELDS

Blurred or clouded windshields are unlawful and should be replaced. Officers have halted many motorists for this violation, advising that the windshields must be replaced or tags will be issued.

A section of the California Vehicle Act states that "It shall be unlawful for any person to drive any motor vehicle upon a highway with any sign, poster, card, sticker or other non-transparent material upon the front windshield, side wings, side or rear windows of such vehicle unless the same shall be placed within a seven-inch square in the lower right-hand corner of the windshield on motor vehicles with a left-hand drive, and in the lower left-hand corner of the windshield on motor vehicles with a right-hand drive; and provided, further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to direction, destination or termini signs upon common carrier vehicles."

It is urged on every motorist to inspect his windshield and see that it complies with the law. Vision, more than any other faculty, is the motorist's safeguard. He must not have it impaired.

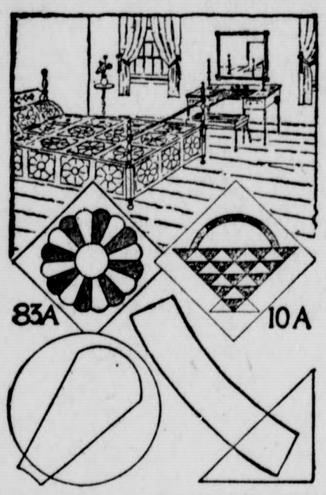
CUTTING PATCHES FOR QUILTS

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK



When making a patch quilt the patches must be cut out right if the finished quilt is to look neat. Sewing seams the same width is also very important. These two points should always be watched as work progresses, to obtain good results, and not have trouble after work is well under way. Cut the patches from accurate cut-out diagrams. The cut-out diagrams shown here are a set for the "Dresden Plate" and "Basket" quilts, and include allowance for seams. Any width for seams may be used but always use the same width in one quilt, to come out right. Directions for use are very simple. Place cut-out on material so the longest dimension follows the weave. Mark outline with pencil and cut out material carefully.

Send 10 cents to our quilt dept. and we mail you both of these fiber cut-outs set No. 83a and 10a.

Easter Music

IF CHRISTMAS is the greatest day in the year for children, Easter holds a similar position for the adult members of the race. The world prepares to welcome it with hymns, psalms and spiritual songs, wherever the light of Christianity has penetrated.

It is a festical of far greater antiquity than Christmas, and at one time marked the dawn of a new year. The vernal equinox occurs about the 21st of March, when winter ends, and spring introduces the coming summer.

The oldest records of history tell that Easter was always a religious festival, though far more ancient than Christianity. Bonfires were kindled in Rome and the sacred fire in the temple of Vesta was renewed on the 1st of March each year. Similar customs prevailed in Germany and England. These customs lingered in certain parts of the British Isles into the Nineteenth century. In Scotland they were called the Need Fires, which were produced by the friction of two pieces of wood, which created the flame. This was quite a religious ceremony, and was accompanied by singing, dancing and the Beltane games. The Beltane cakes were precursors of Easter cakes, a survival of which is still with us in hot cross buns.

The music of Easter is generally of a more advanced character than that of Palestrina Was Commissioned to Write Suitable Music.

Christmas. Carols predominate at the Christmas festival, but there are few carols at Easter, where the music is more in keeping with the Resurrection and Ascension of Christ.

Easter has probably had greater influence in the development of music than any other period of the year. The Council of Trent assembled at this season in 1562, when the great reformation in church music took place. Composers of this time had introduced profane melodies as the principal theme in the masses, and all kinds of ornamentation of an unsuitable character. The council swept the whole system from the church, and commissioned Palestrina to write suitable music for service. He did this, and has since often been referred to as the saviour of church music.

It was the story of the Resurrection of Christ that inspired Schultz to write the first oratorio on that subject. He wrote "The Passion," according to the four Evangelists, and "The Seven Last Words," and history accords to him the title of "The Father of Oratorio."

What would Handel have done without Easter? "The Messiah" stands out as his greatest effort, and there is no composition, even today, which has as great an influence on the people as this oratorio.

The Resurrection of Christ has inspired more lofty thoughts and aspirations in poets, painters and composers than any other subject, and has produced greater works. After the long, cold winter days we are waiting to welcome the Easter sun, so we may join in greeting as we sing,

"Christ the Lord is risen today, Alleluia."

EASTER GREETINGS

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

California's worst storm in recent years took a death toll of 26, with property damage running into millions of dollars. Several rivers overflowed their banks, the Sacramento and Bear rivers breaking levees and causing considerable damage, flooding farm and orchard lands. Of those who either directly or indirectly lost their lives due to the storm, ten were drowned, eleven members of a train crew sent to repair flood damage at Roseville were killed in a railroad collision and five more died in auto accidents caused by the storm.

Birth rate of California families on relief is on the increase, according to SERA Statistician David I. Bryant, who added that it is much higher than that of families not on relief. The statistician declared that families on relief have a lower sense of responsibility for a child's upbringing, which accounts, perhaps, for this situation.

Gasoline prices are dropping in the Los Angeles area. Major companies recently lowered by two cents the prices on all three grades of carfuel. Scores of service stations are reported selling below the 13½-cent-a-gallon price set by the major companies for third grade gas. Some dealers were retailing as low as 10½ cents a gallon.

The location of San Francisco's 1938 Bay Bridge Exposition is still up in the air, figuratively speaking. A recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors disclosed the fact that there are many sites, each one with a strong argument in its favor. Just which one will be the fair-site, however, cannot apparently be decided. The location most favored is on the shoals adjacent to Yerba Buena island, in San Francisco Bay.

Pomona College warblers, both its men's and women's glee clubs, took first prizes in the eleventh annual glee club contest of Pacific Southwest colleges, held recently at Santa Barbara, auspiced by the State College. Occidental was second and the University of Redlands third.

The State Supreme Court declared it could do nothing in the case of Rush Griffin, 19-year-old Negro boy, inadvertently hanged at San Quentin recently after an appeal had been filed which should have, at least temporarily, saved his life. Investigations were being conducted for the missing appeal papers. Legislation to prevent a recurrence of the execution of a man while his case is on appeal has been sponsored in the legislature, following the mistake.

Gold-bearing ore of sufficient value to have resulted in an expenditure of $50,000 for development work and plans for installation of a 30-ton ball mill has been discovered 18 miles from the Los Angeles city hall. The discovery was made by L. W. Hunter, U.S.C. mining student, and is located seven miles north of Pasadena near Millard Canyon.

Twelve hundred feet of steel cable weighing six tons, being used in construction of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge, broke from its lashings recently and crashed through the roof of a pier shed, ripping through 100 feet of roof as though it were tissue paper. Damage was set at $2000.

Substantial increase in wages and shorter working hours have been won by 9000 Pacific Coast seamen as a resule of settlement of the strike which tied up Coast shipping last summer. Wage increases range from 5 per cent in the higher brackets to 33 1-3 per cent in the lowest brackets. All labor issues involved in last summer's strike have been settled except those of Masters, Mates and Mariners and Marine Engineers. Meanwhile the tanker strike, an entirely separate altercation, is still pending.

Tom Mooney's newest fight to obtain freedom has begun in the Superior Court of Marin County. He is seeking release through a writ of habeas corpus.

The Laughlin bill which proposed to raise $10,000,000 a year from the motion picture industry by taxing film one-half cent a foot has been killed by the Assembly revenue and taxation committee at Sacramento.

One hundred and eighty days in jail for disrespect of the American flag. That is the sentence imposed on William Thwing for trampling on Old Glory during a recent Army Day parade. Thwing, who has been receiving a monthly relief dole for some time, was arrested after being beaten up by a mob from which he was rescued by police. He said his hatred of war caused him involuntarily to defile the flag.

On her way to San Francisco from southern California Miss Gertrude Stein, poet who did not write the Stein Song, jolted the intelligencia of Carmel by her curt refusal to set foot in that town. She said she does not like "high brows" as she skirted the city to visit her friend, Harry Leon Wilson.

The Senate Judiciary Committee at Washington has approved the Johnson bill authorizing payment of $6,462,145 to the state of California as the balance due for expenses incurred in aiding the government in the Civil War.

"IN THE SWEET BYE AND BYE"

Fine Old Song Had Origin in Fit of Gloom.

The song, "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" grew out of one of the composer's frequent fits of gloom, according to Hezekiah Butterworth in his "Story of the Hymns and Tunes."

Joseph Philbrick Webster, who wrote the song, entered the office of Dr. Sanford Filmore Bennett in Elkhorn, Wis., in the year 1867, wearing a melancholy look, and was rallied good naturedly by the doctor for being so blue—the two were friends and the doctor was familiar with the other's frequent periods of melancholia.

Webster and Bennett had been working in a sort of partnership, Webster being a musician and Bennett a ready verse-writer, and together they had created and published a number of sheet music songs. When Webster was in a fit of melancholy it was the doctor's habit to give him a "dose" of new verses and cure him by putting him to work.

"What's the matter now?" was the doctor's greeting when his "patient" came with the tell-tale face.

"Oh, nothing," said Webster. "It'll be all right by and by."

"Why not make a song of the sweet by and by?" rejoined the doctor, cheerfully.

"I don't know," said Webster, after thinking a second or two. "If you'll make the words, I'll write the music." And so the song was born and entered in the Sunday School hymn book, "The Signet Ring," which Bennett and Webster were at work upon.

It had no exceptional result as to its hold on the public until 1873 when Ira D. Sankey took it up as one of his working hymns. That year it appeared, with pianoforte accompaniment and chorus in "Winnowed Hymns," as arranged by Hubert P. Main.

Doctor Bennett was born in 1836, and went to Elkhorn from the West in 1861 to practice his profession. He died in October, 1898. Webster was born in Manchester, N. H., March 22, 1819. He was active as a member of the Handel and Haydn society and various other musical associations. He moved to Elkhorn, Wis., in 1857, where he died January 18, 1875. His "Signet Ring" was published in 1868. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ACTIVITIES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Lesley M. Hill, Publicity Chairman)

Daly City Post No. 410 will hold initiation ceremonies at the meeting Wednesday next. The ceremonies will be conducted by the post officers. Starting with the second meeting in May, entertainment will be provided for the second meeting of the month. Comrade Hill has promised moving pictures for the May meeting.

Don't forget the initiation and installation of the Squadron of the Sons of the American Legion tomorrow evening, Saturday. The degree team of San Bruno Squadron No. 409 will conduct the ceremonies.

In carrying out the disaster relief program of the San Mateo County Council, Daly City post has organized a first aid class of twenty members, with Robert McCaughan of San Francisco as instructor. This class will be at the disposal of the local authorities at any time that they should need it.

Daly City post will hold a spaghetti feed in Legion Hall, Saturday evening, May 4. Comrade Saligari is chairman for the evening.

Don't forget the social dance in Legion Hall the last Saturday evening of each month. Good music, refreshments and a grand time.

Bring in a new member for initiation next Wednesday evening, in Legion Hall, 474 San Diego avenue.

DISASTER RELIEF NOTICE FOR LEGION

The following instructions are for the guidance of members of San Mateo County Posts of the American Legion in case they are asked to respond to a nemergency call to assist the local authorities in a major disaster, that is conflagration, earthquake, explosion, insurrection or widespread rioting. In such case, it will be the function of the Legion to assist the local authorities in maintaining or restoring law and order, protect life and property, and care for the injured.

The Legion will not involve itself in a labor dispute. In case of disorders, the emergency mobilization call shall not be sent out unless it appears that the local, state and federal forces available are not sufficient to provide protection for the citizens.

When the emergency mobilization call is sent out by authority of the County Council Commander or hi salternate:

1. Provide security for your family.

2. Report with following equipment if possible: (a) Legion cap, (b) Membership card, (c) First aid pack, (d) Flash light, (e) Knife, (f) Whistle, (g) Overcoat, (h) Piece of rope.

When tests are made to determine the offensiveness of our mobilization members should report to the local Legion hall and there sign up in order of appearance.

3. Take orders only from regular officers of the sheriff's office, police or fire departments. Do not assume authority.

4. Legion succession of command for the purpose of issuing the emergency mobilization call on request of local authorities or for annual test will be: First—the County Council Commander; second—the first vice-commander; third—the Eighth District commander; fourth—the County Council Disaster Relief chairman.

5. Each post disaster chairman, with the assistance of the post adjutant, is requested to immediately start working on a card index (size 3x5). Information on card should be as follows: Name of post, name of comrade, home address, home phone, business address, business phone, occupation, kind of auto, branch of service, and additional qualifications. Additional qualifications should cover experience; for example, first aid, fire department, police department, nursing, drug store, telegraph or telephone company experience, or water company, or gas and electric company.

6. Each post in San Mateo County should submit the names of at least six members; said men should have a reputation for sobriety, leval headedness and ability to take and carry out orders. Two members from the list submitted will be selected by the County Coucil Disaster Relief committee and recommended to the sheriff of our county for immediate appointment as deputy sheriffs.

7. Police departments are well known in each community. The following fire departments are listed on this sheet for general information: Bayshore, Brisbane, South San Francisco, Daly City, Colma, Lomita Park, San Bruno, Millbrae, Burlingame, San Mateo, Hillsborough, Belmont, San Carlos, Redwood City, Menlo Park, Ravenswood, Woodside, Halfmoon Bay.

8. Since we are endeavoring to build up morale and a spirit of confidence in each community, which would be of inestimable value in a crisis, it is recommended that each post endeavor to obtain and keep on hand the following equipment: Six clear oil lanterns, six red oil lanterns, two coils of rope, two hand axes, miscellaneous medical and first aid, two stretchers.

9. Any post desiring to organize a first aid class, communicate with the following and an instructor will be provided. Richard L. Crane, commander; Belton Rhodes Disaster Relief chairman; John Vogt, Jr., adjutant.

MODEL TOWN IS TO BE ERECTED UPON EXPO SITE

Demonstrate Assistance Of Housing Administration Plan To Public

All phases of the building and material industry in this section and the bay region are united in the support of the Federal Housing Administration's plans for an exhibit at the California Pacific International Exposition, opening at San Diego on May 29.

The exhibit, which is designed to visualize the countless ways the public may benefit from the National Housing Act, has been approved by James A. Moffett, National Administrator, Alfred Swinerton, local regional director and other government officials.

Local endorsement of the project has been given by such local leaders as Atholl McBean, A. H. Markwart, George W. Kelham, Charles M. Cadman and Alfred J. Evers.

The FHA exhibit will contain two major divisions, one devoted to "Modernization Magic" and the other to "Modeltown," a community of 56 miniature homes showing the newest types of residential construction.

"Modernization Magic" will show a dilapidated, antiquated village. By dramatized mechanical operations, the village will change in ten minutes into a modern, improved community. Twenty-four homes in miniature will be located in this village.

The FHA's exhibit will adjoin and is a part of the Palace of Better Housing, a magnificent Spanish Renaissance building fronting the Avenue of the Palaces, near the eastern entrance to America's Exposition.

Architectural designs and sketches for "Modeltown" are being executed by the American Institute of Architects, Southern California Chapter, under the direction of David Witmer, prominent Los Angeles architect. The entire labor of construction and installation of the FHA exhibit is being supplied by the California State Emergency Relief Organization.

POPULAR COUPLE JOINED IN MARRIAGE

The marriage of Mondel Plansky and Marian Benjamin was solemnized Sunday evening, April 7, in Joe Mendel's Cafe at the beach, on the Great Highway, San Francisco. It was an elaborate wedding, made doubly romantic by its marine surroundings, together with the profusion of flowers and the colorful gowns of the girls attending the bride. It was an affair that will linger long in the memories of the 150 guests who witnessed the ceremony.

Bernice Levin was maid of honor; Martha Silverstein and Edith Bloom were bridesmaids and Louis Plansky was best man. The ushers were: Julian Benjamin and Morris Plansky. The canopy holders were Max Sabel, Julian Levin, Simon Kurinsky and Myer Heyman. Phillip Plansky was the ring bearer and Esther Hurst, Annette Sabel and Henrietta Sabel were flower girls.

The bride was perfectly gowned in white satin and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Following the services a savory ten course dinner was served, while the music of Joe Mendel's orchestra stole your heart away.

The young couple sped away for a honeymoon trip to Yosemite Lodge, Yosemite Valley, and on their return will make their home at 61 Los Banos avenue in this city.

Telegrams and congratulations were received from various parts of the country, including New York City Tarrytown, New York, Visalia and Tulare, California.

PARTY FOR TOT

Mrs. Jack Coleman of Crocker avenue entertained a group of her little daughter Gloria's friends Tuesday afternoon, celebrating her fourth birthday.

The table was beautifully decorated with Easter favors, of little paper bunnies, spring flowers and pastel shades of crepe paper.

Gloria received many lovely gifts. Those present were: Rose Marie and Junior Sundstrom, Louise and Billie Hofsnider, Amando and Illessio Maggi, Jack Colman Jr., Mrs. Florence Sundstrom, Mrs. Frances Coleman and Miss Mary Coleman.

Chapter Easter Party

Crocker Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, entertained at an Easter party, Monday evening, at Masonic Hall, having as guests the members' children, grand children and many friends.

A delightful program given by Miss Rose's dancing kiddies and several reels of Mickey Mouse moving pictures were enjoyed.

Following the program the children were all presented with baskets of Easter eggs and chocolate rabbits and served with ice cream and animal cookies, while the grown ups enjoyed apple pie, cake and coffee.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

By Chief A. P. Chesney

Instead of fire prevention, this week I will relate some of the activities of your fire department so that you will realize that they are giving you more service than extinquishing fires.

We have only two apparatus that carries the 40 foot extension ladders, so we have to call in the other companies that do not have them and drill them on the ladders.

Captain Cuneo of Station No. 4, held his monthly drill Friday evening. Assistant Chief Silicani of District No. 3 and Captain Kusber of Station No. 6 have never handled these big ladders, so they were called in with their members to take part in the Friday night drill with Station No. 4 and Captain Cosbie with Station No. 5.

The supposed fire was two houses on Bellevue street. Station No. 5 had water on the roof and a second stream in the rear of the building in a fraction less than four minutes. Station No. 4 raised their extension and had it in place ready for Station No. 6 to take their lines over, so that both buildings were ventilated, gas and electricity shut off and four streams of water on the fire in less than six minutes after the signal was given.

Station No. 6 then took the ladder over for their first drill on it, and did remarkably well; in fact, they handled it like old timers. Station No. 5 then took their turn at it and they are improving with each drill.

Chief Chesney and Assistant Chief Silicani commended the men of the three stations on their good work.

After the drill the men returned to Station No. 4 quarters, where a large pot of macaroni had been prepared, Italian style, by the well known chef, Pete Valenti, of the Colma Department.

The boys had their appetites, after their hard work, and certainly enjoyed the feed and what went with it.

OBSERVANCE OF EASTER SUNDAY NOW UNIVERSAL

Christian Era Established Day As First Sabbath After Full Moon

When life is slowly bursting forth anew in springtime in woods, in parks, gardens—when, as George MacDonald says:

"The holy spirit of the Spring is working silently."

Then comes the holy festival called Easter, observed in many branches of the Christian Church to commemorate Christ's resurrection.

Many customs, beautiful and quaint, have been and are still observed in churches and in homes as an expression of joy because Christ rose from the dead. Churches have special services for this closing of the forty days of Lent, and flowers of white, especially Easter lilies, decorate the altars as a sign of purity and light. The sending of Easter eggs is a custom thought to have originated with the Persians, the eggs being symbols of new life. Coloring them red typifies the blood of redemption; other colors have no special significance.

The name Easter comes from the Anglo-Saxon "Eostre," a goddess of light or spring whose festival was celebrated in April. The name of the festival in Greek, French, Italian and most other languages is taken from the Hebrew "Pesach," meaning passover, as by the first Christians Easter was considered a continuation of the Feast of the Passover, at which the paschal lamb, symbol of Christ, was sacrificed.

The proper time for celebrating Easter was long in dispute in the Christian church. The Christians of the East first held Easter on the fourteenth of Nisan (corresponding to April), the day on which the Jewish Passover fell. The majority of the church, however, celebrated it on the Sunday after that day. Finally, the Council of Nice, in A. D. 325, fixed Easter as the first Sunday after the full moon which appears on or next after March 21. By "full moon" is meant the fourteenth day of the calendar moon. If the moon is full March 21, and should that day be Saturday, March 22 would be Easter; that is the earliest date on which it could fall. The latest date for Easter would be April 25; that would be the date if the moon should fall on Monday, April 19.

The Easter Flower

"O Risen Christ, O Easter Flower,
How dear Thy Grace has grown,
From East to West, with loving power,
Make all the world thine own."
—Phillips Brooks.

IN MEMORIUM

In loving memory of Glen Emery, who passed away April 19, 1934.
You're not forgotten, my deal pal,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
I shall remember thee.
—Thomas Long.

Mrs. Helen Grantham of Hanover street is now able to sit up for a few hours each day. This will be welcome news to her many friends.

Mrs. W. Hartman of Bryant street entertained friends at a Bingo game in her home honoring her friend, Bertha MacCarthy of Bellevue avenue, on her birthday anniversary last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Josephine McHugh of Oliver street was ill several days last week and confined to her home.

The regular monthly whist game by the Catholic Daughters will be in Eagles Hall, Wednesday evening, May 1. Mrs. Eleanor Nolan is the chairman.

Mrs. Bertha MacCarthy of Bellevue avenue entertained a group of friends on her birthday last Wednesday evening.

Judge Ellis C. Johnson of Crocker avenue is ill and confined to his home. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin of Partridge Lane spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Modena.

GREAT COUNTY RECEPTION PLAN FOR GOVERNOR

Will Speak On Important Problems Coming Before State Legislature

Plans are being completed for the county wide reception and dinner to Governor Frank F. Merriam in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, San Mateo, Saturday evening, April 27. Every effort is being made to extend an impressive welcome to the governor on his visit to this county.

Despite the arduous duties facing him in Sacramento, Governor Merriam accepted the invitation to come to San Mateo County to address city and county officials, civic and political leaders of both parties on state issues. It is expected the governor's talk will be of marked importance to this county, because of important problems now before the governor and legislature which affect this district.

Reservations for the dinner, which will begin promptly at 6 o'clock, should be made well in advance, because of the limited number. Those desiring to attend can make reservations by communicating with the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. Reservations will be made in the order received until the limit is reached.

Among those to attend the reception and dinner will be prominent residents from every section of the county. Wide interest has been expressed in the governor's visit, and his talk on affairs of state.

Following the reception and dinner Governor Merriam will go to the San Mateo Junior Collegs auditorium, where, at 8 o'clock, he will present David McCullough, prominent San Mateo war veteran and civic leader, with the Burlingame-San Mateo-Hillsborough Community Service Award, sponsored each year by the Burlingame Advance-Star and the Burlingame-San Mateo Lions Club.

The presentation ceremony at the Junior College auditorium will be open to the public without charge.

A. B. Cargill, Burlingame, is chairman of the committee in charge of the reception and dinner.
